

Problems Group

Recipes have long ingredients lists that are unfamiliar to beginners

Duncan Szabaga

Healthy eating feels complex due to the variety of ingredients and dietary trends

Duncan Szabaga

Recipes use cooking lingo or techniques that beginners won't understand

Duncan Szabaga

Beginners aren't aware how much they might need to spend or where to buy the ingredients they'll need

Duncan Szabaga

Solutions Group

Create a beginner friendly cooking system (compile simple, healthy recipes)

Duncan Szabaga

Create a healthy eating "starter kit" (include basic meal templates for subscribers)

Duncan Szabaga

Create an interactive learning app that teaches newcomers step by step how to prepare healthy meals

Duncan Szabaga

Host an in person course that teaches people several simple, healthy recipes in person

Duncan Szabaga

App Ideas Group

Library of recipes ranging from beginner to difficult, with ingredient list and instructions

Duncan Szabaga

Gameified app that teaches users the recipes while also being entertaining

Duncan Szabaga

Chat based app that allows users to communicate and share recipes and tips with other users

Duncan Szabaga

Instead of having recipes and instructions, app has kitchen timer, ingredient lookup, nutritional information, etc. for users.

Duncan Szabaga

Benefits Group

Beginners gain confidence to cook healthy meals without feeling overwhelmed by complexity

Duncan Szabaga

Makes healthy meals more accessible and can lead to better long-term health outcomes

Duncan Szabaga

Focusing on simple ingredients will let beginners cook nutritious meals without spending too much

Duncan Szabaga

Reduces food waste as people will be using less ingredients in their meals

Duncan Szabaga